

Loki

Loki

A joker, trickster and mischief maker, one who smiles at disorder. Loki was clever and often provided resolutions for the other Gods. He was also a shape shifter. He could become a beautiful mare, a fly, a salmon or the invisible wind. Loki was the God of fire, and possessed the same properties. He was slippery, shimmering and flickering with flame coloured hair, neither good nor evil but dangerous in the way he would please and amuse himself.
